

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

Bruce Dudley.
 Here is the clocker's opening day special. According to the lads with the split-second watches the Kneeknap connections have plans completed for a genuine melon-cutting. Pool most likely will be put in the pilot-house to make it stronger. Goes in the fourth at Louisville and has a royal chance to connect with the mazuma. The Camden entry is powerful, while Blowing Bubbles about holds the balance safe.
 In the day's opener I fancy Beaverkill. Miller Henderson has this good campaigner going better right now than he has in years. Nuff sed Dr. Carmen should trim Blue Paradise. Corilla, at nice juke odds, is the baby I like in the second. Have a care with Louise Wynne, however, for she's a genuine sleeper. Jack Hare Jr. ran far below best form the other day. I look for him to figure in a form reversal.

here. Justice and the boys are sure to go well. The Applegate entry has a royal chance to connect in the fifth with Capt.
Mac and King Gorin as the contenders.

Pirate McGee is a sleeper. I awakened here it will be at a price.
Gloomy Gus is fair. Warlike was bet on in China the other day.
Accelerate should trim old Wadworth's Last in the seventh. The latter is at his best but will find a little too much verbiage in the race. Claquett will bear watching.

Panopoly, on the strength of recent good efforts, is sent along by the Eastern clerking staff as the big one at Pimlico this afternoon. Goes in the fourth.

Gallot looks good enough to cop
the day's opener at Pimlico. Kal-lipolis is much better than recent races would indicate. Leachman

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 1.—The flood lights were turned on for the first time today in the Cornell football field to enable the big red squad to work out long after nightfall in the first of four intensive practices for the Dartmouth game. Although the team had a lively battle with Rutgers Saturday, Coach Dobie gave none of the regulars a rest and, though the scrimmaging was short, the teamarsity outfit was given a stiff drill.

The Rutgers game was the best medicine Cornell could have taken as a tonic for the Dartmouth game in the opinion of the backers of the Ithaca squad. The Cornell rugged Rutgers' line just the opposition to give the red forwards, most of whom have never played a big game before, an idea of what to look for in the game with the Green. The only chance for the value of the Monday footballback, where Jewett was given preference, neither Olney nor Baughwey satisfying Dobie in the trial he gave them in the Rutgers game. The cautious Sord is pessimistic as usual, saying the dope all favors Dartmouth. Coach Sanford, of Rutgers is quoted as saying that the Green will have to be pretty good to win.

IN BIG-10 RACE

Illinois and Ohio State Lead
Western Conference With 3 Wins Each.

Illinois and Ohio State jumped into the lead in the Western Conference gridiron race Saturday, maintaining early records with three-point advantages.

Ohio State's one-point victory over Chicago, in line with its last-minute defeat of the strong Wisconsin team the week before, supplied the surprise of the day.

The Buckeyes looked good to go through now until the clash with Illinois November 20, a game which has all the earmarks, at present, of resembling last year's title battle.

Illinois continued to lead the Big Ten Midwest as Coach Zuppke
